Intimate Apparel

By Lynn Nottage

Travel back to the ragtime era to meet Esther, a master seamstress with a spinster’s life but a poet’s tireless soul. Trapped between high society and its sordid shadow world, her heart is constrained by race, religion and class. Throughout her story’s suspenseful turns, her resilience reflects America’s enduring hopefulness. At once delicate and gripping, this award-winning play by Pulitzer Prize-recipient Lynn Nottage is directed by SFA alumnus Thomas Brazzle.

This play is recommended for mature audiences only due to coarse language and controversial subject matter.

The School of Theatre is pleased to make this show available to students and sponsors attending the One-Act Play Festival at the specially reduced rate of $5 per ticket. (Normal ticket prices are $7.50 for students and $15 for adults.) This group rate is available only to participants of the One-Act Play Festival.
